The absolute best way for people to learn vocabulary is through natural and repeated exposure: both in conversation and reading. However, I know many of my students are not hearing higher-level vocabulary with their friends or at home, and I also sadly know their reading is often limited to emojis and Facebook posts.

Teaching Vocab to Struggling High School Students ...

The goal of teaching vocabulary is to expand a student's word knowledge. One way to do this is by encouraging students to use vocabulary words in their lives. This is where word charting comes in. Teachers can encourage students to do this outside of the classroom while they're at home. For instance, if students have just been taught the word "cacophony," which means discordant sounds, encourage them to look for real-life scenarios to use it.
